Description

On the outer box is a picture of the front page of the Gruen book "A worthy Company of watchmakers". This book is from 1918. The inner box is also made of cardboard. Missing the watch holder.

Period : 1918 - 1928?

Watch type : ladies silk ribbon wristlet (educated guess)

Size : outer box (H=4cm W=11cm D=7.5cm), inner box (H=3.8cm W=10.1cm D=5.4cm)

Inventor : unknown

Patents : unknown

Box maker : Dennison Mfg Company

Impressed in the bottom of the inner box is "Dennison maker". The Dennison Mfg.

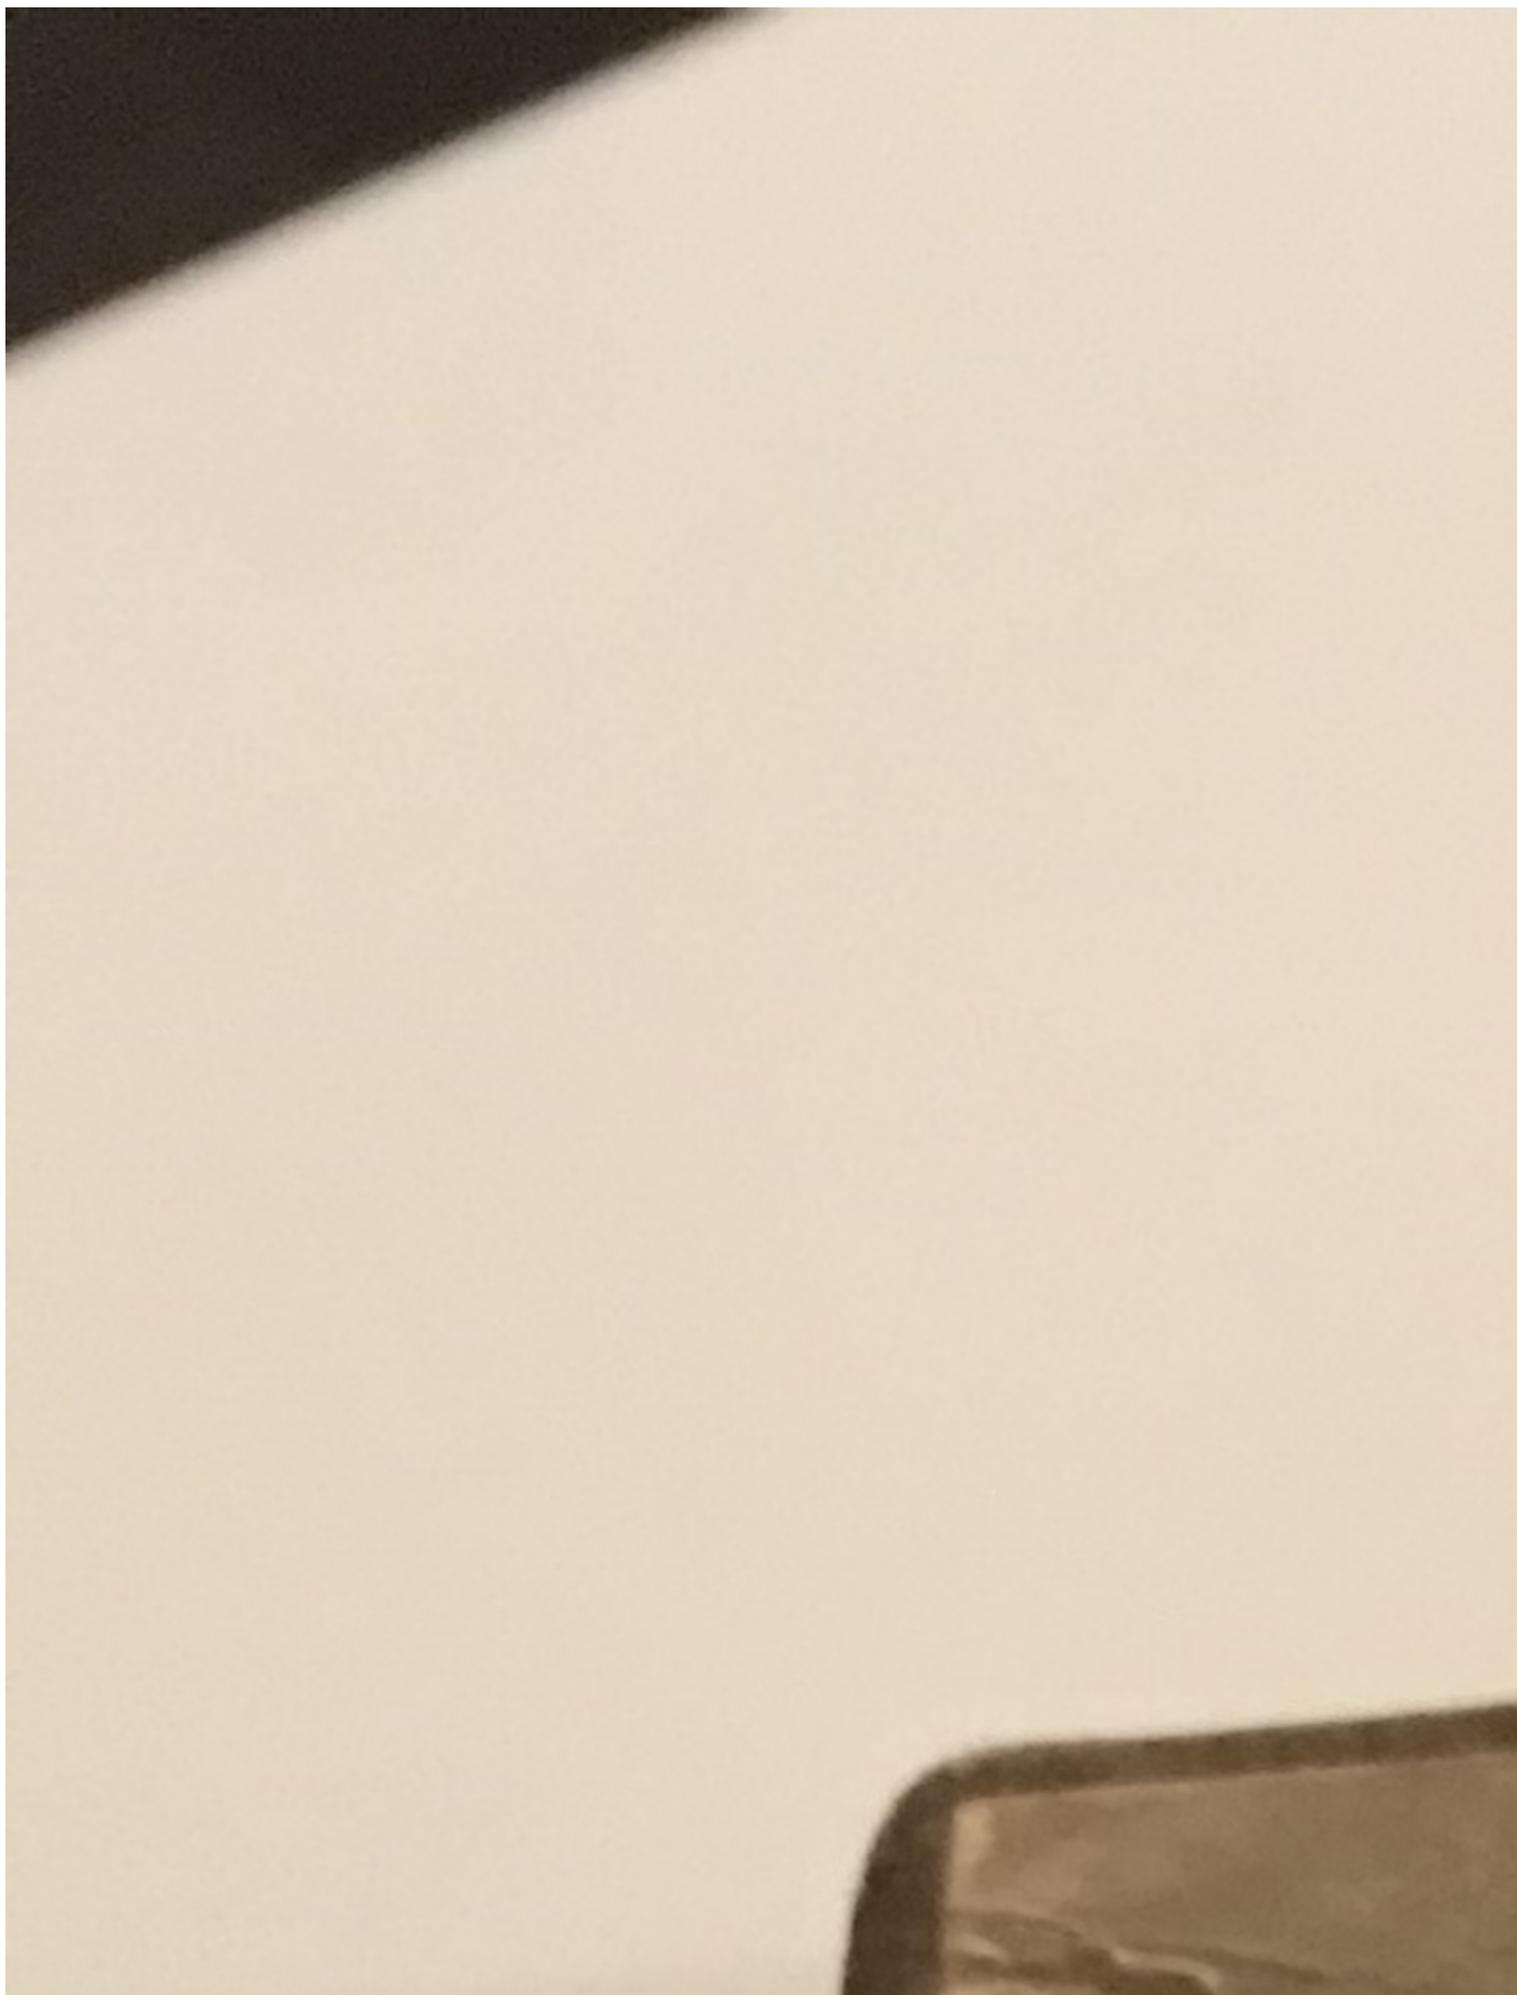

Company started in 1844 when Aaron Dennison (a Boston jeweller) began to make paper boxes. His father (Andrew) and he made a machine to facilitate the making of cardboard boxes. At the time most jewel boxes were imported. In 1863 the company produced lots of paper stuff (jewelry tages, display cards) and in 1914 crepe paper. One of the sales offices was in Cincinnati. Today the factory still exists in combination with Avery.
