OK, accompanying papers first, it is a single sheet of paper, printed double sided:

Here comes the folder showing the box. As you can see the inside looks a bit different in this preseries, I think that the introductory folder was made with prototypes of the boxes.

Last but not least a group picture of all 6 Victor / Victoria models:

There is the slight possibility that the boxes were used for the succeeding Victor / Victoria couple of quite different looking watches with the same names which were introduced as successors in 1938.

This brilliantly colorful new window display will tie up your store definitely with the powerful support given the new Gruen "Victoria" watches by those famous stars of the stage and screen, Helen Hayes and Victor McLaglen. It will make passers-by stop, look and enter your store.

The complete display consists of the distinctively designed centerpiece illustrated above, two side displays shown at left and right, and four display cards illustrated below—seven pieces in all.

Up-to-the-minute in timeliness RIGHT NOW, this attractive display will bring to your store the many customers produced by extensive national magazine, radio and publicity campaigns on the "Victor-Victoria" series of Gruen Watches.

The four display cards illustrated above and at the right are included in the complete display. Two cards tie up Victor McLaglen with the Gruen "Victor" watch—the other two cards feature Helen Hayes and the new Gruen "Victoria" watch. The attention-compelling scenes on the cards are from the movie "Professional Soldier" in which Mr. McLaglen is now starring and from the stage play "Victoria Regina" in which Miss Hayes is the dramatic star.
