Yeah saw Susan at the National in Virginia. IDK but these forums are some complicated beats to keep going, php, sql, Linux an vi all wrapped into one. Even this forum can be daunting when in debug mode.

One of their biggest issues and I suspect is the cause, their site hosting has very little if any support. I pointed that out to Nookster when he was getting his https certificates, they were making him pay monthly fee for it. I literally fell off my stool because ours is free.

My bets are they might come back but not all in one piece.
