

---

Subject: Re: Gruen "Strap 130"

Posted by afire on Tue, 07 Jan 2014 04:21:12 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

C. Hurt wrote on Mon, 06 January 2014 19:46 "Tarnish Proof" nickel had a thin rhodium plating to help prevent the corrosive reaction that nickel often shows when exposed to acidic perspiration. Interesting. That explains why these cases are so very white (relative to the comparatively cloudy gray I usually associate with nickel in other applications).

---