
Subject: WWII era case parts for cal 420 series watches

Posted by JackW on Fri, 05 Jan 2018 03:16:14 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I picked up a nice dial with a movement recently, that likely originated from a low-serial Swiss case. The movement is a 421ss with serial #789134. Among the lowest 420/421ss serial I've seen to date. No case though....

So I have these two parts. It is the same story that the threads on the case back do not mesh with the bezel.

Case back has the serial 52623 and has "Guldite Back" on the inside but is not recessed for the sweeps seconds. This is likely for a chrome-plated case because of the word "back" that housed a subseconds 420/421.

The bezel I have is a stainless steel bezel for the 420 or 420ss cal. A case back from another Gruen 420ss cal watch with serial 1068426 fits the threads. Considering the serial number on the movement, the case likely had the 'million' serial case or a swiss case with a 49xxx serial.

I'm looking to trade my case back (non-recessed) for a case back (with the SS recess) in those above serials.

I'll re-reimburse you for the postage too.

...or if you have one that will fit for sale.

Cheers!

File Attachments

1) gruen bezel back mismatch_sm.jpg, downloaded 2282 times

Subject: Re: WWII era case parts for cal 420 series watches
Posted by JackW on Tue, 05 Mar 2019 23:38:20 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Anyone?

Subject: Re: WWII era case parts for cal 420 series watches

Posted by C. Hurt on Fri, 08 Mar 2019 02:23:17 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Jack,

When I'm back in the country, I will check my box of Pan Am parts. I know I have several of this style, but will have to verify serials. Talk to you next week.

Cary
