Yes, this seems like a longshot, but over the years I've seen a few movements with dial that clearly came from Imperial Tanks, no doubt the remains of a smelting victim. I'd take either the 885 or 315 version, with movement or without, raised gold markers or radium, with or without subseconds. Thanks!

Thanks fellas. There a few variations. Two with no sub-seconds using 885's:

And another with seconds, usually a 315:

I just looked at my supplies and it is a dial for a cal 98 with rounded edges. Sorry if I got your hopes up.

Not such a long shot. I have at least three.

Watch your PMs.

You're the man! I'd bet there are many things that aren't as long a shot as they might seem when it comes to your parts drawer.
